One sunny morning in the wet green rainforest, there was a boy called Daniel. He had brown skin and curly black hair. He was very tall and he wore special red glasses.
They were bendy so they helped him see all around the forest.

Later that day Daniel saw a pretty girl playing. He went and joined her. Suddenly a giant butterfly bit the girl. She had a bump the size of a orange on her head.

Daniel picked the girl up and flew her to the hospital as fast as lightening.
On his way he saw a beautifull parrott a colourful as a rainbow in the sky. He also saw a big, black, white toucan with a giant orange beak. They helped him find the hospital.

The doctor gave her an injection that made her better. Daniel flew the girl called Eva back to the rainforeset.
